

Emergency Response System/Telephone Reassurance

An emergency response system assists the older and disabled person to call for help in an emergency by using a home alert unit. The unit transmits a signal that sets a response plan into action. Telephone reassurance provides regular phone contact to isolated homebound persons to ensure their well-being and to provide social support.

Energy Assistance Program

Provides financial assistance to eligible persons to pay for fuel or heating bills. Eligibility is based on income, assets and family size.

Faith in Action Caregiver Programs

Provide non-professional volunteer assistance through partnerships with local faith communities. Services may include transportation, shopping, friendly visiting, yard work, household chores, mail management, meal preparation, respite care, telephone reassurance, referral, etc. Programs do not generally charge fees for their services, but rather encourage participants and families to give a donation.
