Iowa Hospice provides quality care for patients

Iowa Hospice has not been around long, but it has already grown leaps and bounds from what was one man's dream.

Iowa Hospice, which has an office at 223 1st Avenue East in Oskaloosa, opened its first office in Johnston in April of 2005. Two months later, Iowa Hospice served its first hospice patient, enabling her to spend her last days in the comfort of her home, an assurance a patient always has with Iowa Hospice. In July, Iowa Hospice became Medicare- and Medicaid-certified.

The top priority of Iowa Hospice is serving their patients and their families with top-notch care. It also focuses on educating the community and serves as a "bridge" between patients and medical professionals. The end result is patients and their families have a high level of satisfaction with their care, important conversations about care decisions can occur, and patients avoid needless suffering.

Iowa Hospice, which has 44 employees, has assisted more than 170 families in 24 counties across the state.

Despite the tremendous growth Iowa Hospice has undergone, one thing is certain — the quality of health care has not faltered.

Family satisfaction scores continue to be higher than averages for hos-pices nationwide. A strong focus on customer service is what differentiates Iowa Hospice from others and it is what will help ensure the long-term growth and success of Iowa Hospice.

What has set Iowa Hospice apart from other hospices is that it has a dedicated Facility Nurse Liaison to function as a bridge between a facility and the hospice team. They have experience in long-term-care and hospice. These RNs help assess patients, educate your staff and make sure the facility is happy with care Iowa Hospice is providing.
