Brooke Lewis, 19, is the director of Barbourville's newest dance studio. Studio B is located at 95 Minton Drive in Barbourville and will begin classes on Tuesday. Lewis will be hosting an open house on Monday at 6 p.m. Lewis will be teaching baton, tap, jazz and hip hop to girls ages four and up.

STUDIO B TO OPEN IN MAY WITH TAP, JAZZ, BATON AND HIP HOP FOR GIRLS

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES-TRIBUNE

Most girls at 12 years old have no idea what they want to do when they grow up. Brooke Lewis, however, knew early on that she wanted to teach dance.

Lewis spent many years dreaming of what her dance studio would be like, what types of classes she would have and how she would design her program. Now, at age 19, her dreams and hopes have become real. Studio B, the only dance studio of its kind in Barbourville, will begin classes Tuesday, May 20.

Lewis will teach baton, tap, jazz and hip hop to girls ages four and up. Each class includes three levels - beginning, intermediate and advanced.

Lewis will have the girls performing at major events in the Knox, Laurel and Whitley County area, such as festivals and parades. Studio B students will have one major recital per year, along with the other appearances.

Studio B also offers original choreography for school dance teams and cheer squads - elementary, middle school and high school.

Lewis, who is a student at Union College, has been cheering, dancing, tapping and twirling baton since she was 5 years old. She likes working with girls of all ages. Most recently she volunteered her time to choreograph dances for the Barbourville High School Dance Team. She knows all too well how performing can help a
