GHS '08 class excels on many levels

Grandview High School's senior class set standards and excelled on many levels, said Joe Perrin, GHS principal.

"The 2008 senior class of GHS is an exceptional group of young men and women," Perrin said. "They have set a high standard of success for the classes to come and have represented GHS very well throughout their high school career."

The group's many district, area, regional and state championships over the last four years stand as a testament to their success, Perrin said.

"They have spent countless hours giving back to the community through service hours and volunteer work," Perrin said. "They have exceeded any expectation set for them and have done it with integrity."

Perrin said he expects a bright future for this year's graduating class.

"They will be very successful in whatever they choose to do and will definitely be missed," Perrin said.

Grandview ISD Superintendent Keith Scharnhorst agreed with Perrin's assessment of this year's seniors.

"The class of 2008 was very successful," Scharnhorst said.

"The senior class has classmates that were state UIL academic champions, state FFA champions and several other district championships. Their work ethic will make them a success in life. I wish them nothing but the best in their future endeavors."
