

register until 1 p.m., she said. The show will wrap up with an awards ceremony at 3 p.m. Entering a car will cost $10, but spectators can enjoy the vehicles without charge.

Wilson said any profit the company makes from the show benefits the Texas Pythians Children's Home in Weatherford.

She and her husband use the money to provide clothing and Christmas presents for the children at the home, which is a nonprofit home that does not receive state funds.

Participants in the show will vote to determine the award winners, Wilson said, and awards will be presented in 25 classes, which include cars under construction, special interest vehicles and late-model categories. Trophies will be presented for the best of show in cars and trucks and for the sponsor's choice.

"The trophies will be red," Wilson said. "I don't know why, but people have been asking me what color the trophies are going to be. But they'll be Dodge red."

In addition to the cars, spectators will be entertained with games during the show, with door prizes for the winner, she said.

The Wilsons have advertised the show on their Web site, on local television and radio, in car magazines and on car club Web sites, so they expect to have a good turnout, she said. An average show will have 70-80 cars.

A few days after the show, D and D will post pictures on its Web site, Wilson said.

"We're looking forward to being in Cleburne," she said. "It's going to be a lot of fun."
