Read The Book

We're looking for young readers - from primary through the eighth grade to review books for The Independent. Reviews will be randomly selected and published each Sunday in the newspaper's Schools section. The guidelines are simple.

2nd

Write a review. Start with a brief summary of the book and then give your reaction to it. What is the book about? What are its major themes? What is the basic plot? (Don't give away the ending.) Explain why you think other young readers would like to read this book - or why they should avoid it. What do you like and dislike about the book? What are its good points? What are its bad points? Would you recommend this book to someone else? Why or why not? For picture books, respond to both the story and the art. Try to do this in 150 words or less. Feel free to ask others to help but remember, this is your review.
